My holidays in New Zealand

This year I want to visit New Zealand. New Zealand is situated in the Pacific Ocean and its capital city is Wellington. Once in Wellington I would like to visit the famous Botanic Garden where we can discover the aboriginal wildlife. I am really fascinated by this foreign country which is full of natural wonders. Do you know that New Zealanders are nicknamed Kiwis? It's funny, isn't it? I'm also interested in New Zealand's historical background. It was a colony of the British Empire from 1841 to 1947. Now it's part of the Commonwealth and the British monarch is the head of state. New Zealand has three official languages: English, Maori and New Zealand sign language. New Zealanders all speak English but they also speak their own English which is referred to as Kiwi English. This language is a reflection of their culture. I'm sure I'll have a great time there!

2 My new neighbours

I've recently settled into a new house in a quiet suburb. Before I lived in a flat in the city centre of London which was far too noisy and polluted. I was fed up with this life so I decided to find a new place to live. My new house is really comfortable and I have now a little garden where I love spending my time when the weather is fine. Everything would be perfect except for my new neighbours. They live next door with half a dozen cats. They are very noisy. They spend all their time shouting and their cats are literally invading my garden! It's a real nightmare! That's why I have made a decision. I'm going to invite them to a tea party. Getting to know them better and trying to discuss the problem is probably the best solution!

Le saviez-vous

Le terme « suburb » (=banlieue) s'est développé aux 19<sup>e</sup> et 20<sup>e</sup> siècles avec l'expansion des transports routiers et ferroviaires qui ont permis aux habitants de s'éloigner du centre des villes entraînant ainsi une augmentation des déplacements domicile-travail.

3 Gap years

In the UK, gap years are becoming more and more popular. But what is a gap year? It's a period taken by students as a break between high school and university. This gap year is often taken abroad. There are many reasons explaining why so many students decide to take a gap year. Sometimes it's a compulsory part of their studies so they need to go abroad to graduate. It's also a very good way to experience new things and meet new people which will help students to develop professionally and find a job more easily. But it's also an opportunity to learn more about themselves and experience life in a different country. All these reasons push thousands of young people to take a gap year abroad every year.

Telecommuting

Telecommuting, or working from home, is one of the new trends more and more people are dreaming of. Being able to sleep late and staying in pyjamas all day long, having the time to do exactly what we want when we want. These are some of the advantages people think about when we mention telecommuting. But is it really so cool? Telecommuting requires self-discipline and a set of precise rules otherwise this dream could easily turn into a nightmare.

Here are some work-from-home tips:

- set up a very precise schedule and control your working time.
- make a list of all the things you have to do.
- don't forget to have breaks.
- try to find the best working place.
- don't forget to move!
- don't forget to separate your professional and private lives.

All these elements should be taken into consideration before starting telecommuting. But if you succeed, telecommuting can really give you more independence and flexibility!
